

Questions for the wheel game.

The day is beginning. The sun is rising. At which cardinal point does the sun rise?

You want to point someone in the right direction.
How can you do that?

It's evening. The sky is very cloudy. What instruments can you use to guide you?

You're in the car travelling with your parents. They're going to visit an aunt they haven't seen for a long time. How can you use directions to find your aunt's address?

You're at the railway station in a foreign city unknown to you. You want to visit the natural history museum in the south of the city. The only way to guide yourself around the station is by using the cardinal points. Which direction do you take? North or south?